Hello! I'm Joaquin, with over 5 years of experience in developing programs and algorithms for algorithmic trading, I have channeled my passion for creation into programming. I began my career as a web developer in 2022, with a primary focus on frontend technologies. My expertise extends to backend development and overall application architecture for a comprehensive understanding of my work.

Beyond the programming realm, I actively pursue personal growth, both physically and mentally. Additionally, I dedicate time to my personal project, documenting the entire process on my YouTube channel. Find more about me on my website.
